Community meetings to give update on plan

Another round of community updates on work under the Basin Plan will be held in the southern Murray–Darling Basin next month.

The Murray–Darling Basin Authority will host the meetings across South Australia, Victoria and New South Wales.

The update session will cover environmental watering, infrastructure programs, water trading, constraints management and other aspects of Basin Plan implementation and water reform progress. An afternoon panel session about environmental watering will also be held in Renmark, Mildura, Shepparton, Deniliquin and Griffith.

Staff from the Commonwealth Environmental Water Office and the Commonwealth Department of the Environment will also attend to answer questions.
